

Delta County Libraries Art Display Policy

Delta County Libraries accepts art from individual artists and groups of artists. Groups or individuals shall present proposals to the appropriate library manager. The Library reserves the right to determine appropriateness of items to be included in the display.

Price tags shall not be posted. A price list, description of the artwork on display and biographical information about the artist may be left at the circulation desk, or other appropriate location, and made available to the public upon request.

All work must be original by the submitting artist.

Display material will not contain offensive, obscene, profane or indecent content as defined by state and federal statutes and laws.

Display material shall not promote, encourage or entice violence.

Delta County Libraries does not insure exhibit items. Exhibitors will be responsible for providing coverage for items exhibited. No special security will be provided for art work. Exhibitors must complete and sign a form listing the contents of the display and releasing Delta County Libraries from liability in the case of damage to or thefts of items.

Delta County Libraries will not take responsibility or assume liability for materials in displays and will require the exhibitor or his/her representative or exhibiting organization to sign a document identifying and releasing the LMS from responsibility.
